Al Sims

Head Coach-Director of Player Personnel, Fort Wayne Komets

Al Sims returned to the Fort Wayne Komets for the 2007-08 season as Head Coach and Director of Player Personnel for the first time since capturing his first IHL Turner Cup Championship as Fort Wayne's head coach in 1992-93 and earning the IHL's Commissioner's Trophy for Coach of the Year. Sims was named IHL Coach of the Year again for 2007-08.

2011-12 is Sims' ninth season behind the Fort Wayne bench as head coach and the 37th year of his pro hockey career since his rookie season of 1973-74 as a defenseman for the NHL's Boston Bruins, playing alongside the legendary Bobby Orr. Sims skated in the NHL for 10 seasons, also appearing in stints with the Hartford Whalers and Los Angeles Kings for a total of 476 NHL appearances.

Sims also skated with the Fort Wayne Komets during 1988-89 before accepting his first head coaching role with the Komets for the 1989-90 season. Sims coached the Komets for four seasons before moving on to the NHL as part of the coaching staff of the Anaheim Mighty Ducks in 1993-94, where he served for three seasons. Sims also served as head coach of the 1996-97 San Jose Sharks. Sims served an additional eight seasons as head coach in stints with Milwaukee IHL, Reading ECHL, Corpus Christi and Fort Worth CHL and Wilkes-Barre AHL. Sims took on the role as General Manager of the Flint Generals in the UHL for 2006-07 before returning to Fort Wayne for 2007-08.

Sims is the 26th head coach in the history of the Komet's franchise. He has guided the Komets to two division titles and two regular season league titles and is the only Fort Wayne head coach to win four Turner Cup Championships with the 2010 crown. His first Fort Wayne championship came in 1993 before Sims moved on to further his career. Sims won the Turner Cup Title in each of his first three seasons since returning in 2007-08 for a total of four straight Championships as Fort Wayne's head coach.

During 2008-09 Sims became the winningest Komet head coach with his 272nd Fort Wayne career win March 17, 2009 at Port Huron (2-1 OT win), moving ahead of Greg Puhalski. Sims set a new record for most Fort Wayne career games coached with his 495th on Nov. 26, 2009 vs. Flint, beating the old record of 494 set by Ken Ullyot in 1970. Sims completed 2010-11 with a Fort Wayne career total of 364 wins as Komet head coach plus 60 playoff wins.
